

Spotlight on Women in Privacy™

Nandita Rao Narla, Sr. Privacy Program Manager, DoorDash

What do you love most about being a privacy professional?

Being part of a rapidly evolving field with new learning opportunities and challenges. Also, the ability to impact almost every aspect of the business and represent the voice of customers in the context of transparency and trust.

What was the best professional advice you ever received?

Strive for constant improvement, not perfection.

What one privacy development are you paying close attention to this month?

Monitoring industry response and impact of iOS 14.5 privacy requirements

How do you unwind from work?

Hiking with my dog, gardening, reading, and baking (yes, I share the blame for yeast and flour shortages last year)
